A word from ENCATC

Dear Members,

Dear Colleagues,

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to Antwerp for the 21st ENCATC Annual Conference “Rethinking Education on Arts and Cultural Management”. Over the next three days from 5-7 November, hundreds of academics, researchers, professionals from the cultural and educational sector, arts-culture organisations, students, policy makers, artists and media from more than 51 countries will come together to share expertise and experiences, to gain new knowledge, and enlarge their professional networks. This conference is also organised under UNESCO’s patronage in recognition of ENCATC as a valuable partner in the implementation of UNESCO’s priorities and in advancing the Organisation’s efforts in the area of culture.

The focus of this year’s Annual Conference stems from ENCATC’s wish to address for its part, the ongoing crisis that has left no country untouched. But as we are witnessing, a crisis that is prolonged and continues is in fact a mutation. Five major mutations are intertwined and visible at this time: a geopolitical mutation (emergence of Asia); economic (globalization), biological (genetic revolution), technological (digital revolution), and ecological (depletion of resources).

In this new context education is faced with the challenge to fulfil its mission adequately, but also to contribute to a smart, sustainable and inclusive growth in Europe. Digitalisation and globalisation are opening new market opportunities, in particular for universities, small businesses and cultural organizations.

Higher arts education institutions’ reform of study programmes should be based on a different philosophy of training: from traditional teacher-led approaches to more integrated approaches that take into account the actual reality of the profession where cultural operators are increasingly asked to engage in different professional tasks (“portfolio career”), or operate in a self-employed context.

The recent communication from the Commission “Rethinking education: investing in skills for better socio-economic outcomes” published in November 2012 calls for creating new capabilities for this new scenario: “The broad mission of education and training encompasses objectives such as active citizenship, personal development and well-being. While these go hand-in-hand with the need to upgrade skills for employability, against the backdrop of sluggish economic growth and a shrinking workforce due to demographic ageing, the most pressing challenge for Members States is to address the needs of the economy and focus on solutions to tackle fast-rising youth unemployment”.

In this new scenario, how should education evolve? Which skills and expertise should education in the cultural management and policy field provide for encouraging smart, sustainable and inclusive growth in Europe and beyond? How could networks in the field of culture and education contribute to reform and modernisation of the educational system? How could networks also create capabilities to stimulate the sector’s ability to innovate through the exploration of fresh and unconventional connections between the creative, business and academic spheres? These are just some of the questions that will be analysed and debated during this International Conference.

To debate these important issues the ENCATC Annual Conference will begin on 5 November with a keynote speech by Jan Truszczyński, Director General for Education, Training, Culture and Youth, European Commission who will present how European policy makers are rethinking higher education in these changing times.

In order to gather the reactions from academics and practitioners to this important European Communication, to be inspired by their vision on how to prepare the next generation of arts-cultural managers, and how to meet the needs of the arts-cultural market, ENCATC has organised a roundtable that will gather confirmed academics and cultural experts: Milena Dragicevic Sesic, University of Arts in Belgrade, Fabio Donato, University of Ferrara, Sue Kay, Researcher and trainer, Annick Schramme, University of Antwerp / Antwerp Management School, and Hans Waegel, Rotterdam Philharmonic Orchestra.

To conclude this first day, the 10th Cultural Policy Research Award Ceremony will be held to promote and celebrate excellence and innovation for early career cultural policy researchers. One of the six CPRA finalists will be revealed by the international jury and be Awarded 10.000 EUR to carry out his or her winning research proposal. This moment will also be an opportunity to discover the new future outline of this prestigious Award after 2013.

On the second day, 6 November, to better understand the challenges faced by cultural leaders in their day to day management, we will discuss how to rethink leadership in arts and cultural management institutions. ENCATC has invited keynote speakers Hilary S. Carty from ICCE (Institute of Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship) at Goldsmiths, University of London and Serge Dorny, General Director of the Lyon Opera to share their expertise and experiences in order to encourage thought and discussion.

Building on the success of previous conferences, the programme in Antwerp also includes the 4th Annual ENCATC Research Session which aims to share the latest trends and developments in arts -cultural management and policy research. Now in its 4th year, the Annual ENCATC Research Session clearly proves to be perceived internationally as an important gathering of established and emerging researchers from Europe and around the world. This year, 27 researchers from 17 countries were invited to present in Antwerp, chosen from over 50 submissions.

The afternoon programme will begin with the popular and interactive Annual Cultural Seminars, each to reflect on rethinking education within the framework of ENCATC's eight Thematic Areas. These seminars will also offer the participants the possibility to contribute to the work done by the Education & Learning Working Group of the Access to Culture Cultural Sector Platform in 2013. For this purpose the participants of the parallel seminars will also analyse and debate how it will be possible to empower individuals with the appropriate educational tools, skills and competencies, for their active cultural, political and economic participation in society in Europe and beyond.

Each seminar will be followed by a corresponding study visit to one of Antwerp's flagship cultural institutions to foster connections with the local cultural scene to learn from direct experiences of cultural operators. This will also be a unique opportunity for each Director of the visited cultural organisations to present to the participants their educational programmes that promote access to culture.

The second day will conclude with a reception and a performance by a young local jazz artist.

Knowing the importance to share good practices, on the third and last day of the conference, ENCATC members and partners will present their ongoing projects. Afterwards, the reflection on competencies and skills will continue with a dynamic panel discussion on “Which education for tomorrow’s cultural managers: Are skills and competencies enough?” This final session of the ENCATC Annual Conference is also the concluding event of a 2-year project, CREA.M (Creative Blended Mentoring for Cultural Managers), funded by the European Commission’s Leonardo da Vinci programme. Over the past two years, 8 partners have reflected on rethinking how to foster creativity and entrepreneurial skills for cultural managers based on the mapping of competencies needed in the cultural sector. After the panel, conference participants will learn about CREA.M’s project outcomes which serve as an inspiration to anyone looking to transform how they approach learning and professional development in the cultural sector.

This 3-day event has been made possible thanks to the generosity and unwavering commitment of our member and local organiser: the University of Antwerp and the Antwerp School of Management. In particular, our most sincere gratitude goes to Annick Schramme who has been essential in successfully leading the local team composed of Laila De Bruyne and a number of volunteers: Sarah Bonnarens, Jacob De Bruyne, Lennart Deroo, Hanne De Meyer, Evelien Dockx, Elien Forrier, Nicole Fux, Hadewych Hernalsteen, Jasmijn Lahaye, Danique Moonen, Laura Simons, Fien van Houtven, Valerie Vervoort, and Frieda Wyns.

ENCATC would also like to acknowledge with great respect and give thanks to the members of Annual Conference's Scientific Committee for their intellectual contribution to the programme: Blanka Chládková, Giannalia Cogliandro Beyens, Manuèle Debrinay-Rizos, Gerald Lidstone, Hans Mommaas, Cristina Ortega, Jaakko Pitkänen, Annick Schramme, and Katla Segers. Their continued commitment and contributions to the content design of this conference was essential for the realization of this event.

Our sincere gratitude goes to all the keynote speakers who kindly accepted to join us in Antwerp and share their expertise and knowledge with us: Hilary S. Carty from ICCE (Institute of Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship) at Goldsmiths, University of London; Serge Dorny, General Director of the Lyon Opera; and Jan Truszczynski, Director General for Education, Training, Culture and Youth, European Commission.

ENCATC is also very grateful for the time, dedication and intellectual contribution of the ENCATC Thematic Area chairs who co-produced the 7 parallel cultural seminars and study visits. We also thank all the invited cultural seminar experts who have kindly accepted to share their knowledge and first-hand experiences during the seminars and study visits.

ENCATC wishes to deeply thank Jacques Bonniel, Giannalia Cogliandro, François Colbert, Fabio Donato, and Cristina Ortega Nuere for their support in the organisation of the 4th Annual ENCATC Research Session, very efficiently coordinated by Elizabeth Darley.

We would like to thank our members and partners who will participate in the Project Presentations session on 7 November.

Our warm thanks also goes to the CREA.M Creative Blended Mentoring for Cultural Managers project partners who are contributing to different sessions of the ENCATC Annual Conference with their experience and knowledge of this unique project, to the final session on 7

November, and to the overall nourishment of the conference's debate on skills and competencies.

From the ENCATC Brussels office, ENCATC acknowledges Elizabeth Darley and Costanza Caffo for their professionalism and efficient support in the implementation of this major international event. Our recognition also goes to our trainees Alejandra Munguia Salazar and Carles Castellar for their enthusiasm and fresh energy in preparation of material for this conference.

This conference is made possible thanks to the support from the European Commission's Culture Programme. ENCATC is extremely grateful for the long-lasting recognition from the European Commission and we look forward to future synergies.

To celebrate the milestone of the 10th Cultural Policy Research Award, ENCATC also thanks the kind generosity of the European Cultural Foundation, the funder of the Award in partnership with ENCATC.

We believe this Reader and the conference outcomes will help all participants to better understand challenges of education and training in the arts-cultural sector. Furthermore, this is an important opportunity to contribute to the debate and collect opinions and concrete ideas from our members and main stakeholders attending this event about two key questions: "How should education evolve in the field of arts and cultural management for today's varied and unpredictable career paths?" and "How could we efficiently prepare the next generation of arts-cultural managers to meet the needs of the arts-cultural market?"

Our hope is that this event will also actively contribute to the flourish of new synergies and projects among the many participants present in Antwerp.

A WARM WELCOME

from the University of Antwerp

Dear ENCATC members and Participants,
Welcome to Antwerp!

The Faculty of Applied Economics of the University of Antwerp is thrilled to co-host the 21st International ENCATC Conference on the education of Arts and Cultural Management.

We have a firm commitment to arts management education and research, and we recognize the vital role that expert management of arts and cultural organizations has on society. We are proud of the Master in Cultural Management. Over the years, it has produced competent people who combine solid business knowledge with a passion for and understanding of the unique management challenges inherent in arts institutions and in cultural and creative industries. For the individual creative entrepreneur the Antwerp Management School started a new education program called 'creative jumpers' to develop the entrepreneurial and managerial skills and knowledge among these creatives.

Antwerp's dynamic arts and cultural scene reflects the long cultural tradition of the city and the vibrant creativity today: from the new heritage museums, called the MAS and the Red Star Line, to the Royal Opera House and our fashion designers. Experience the energy yourself!

We are honored to have the world's scientific leaders in arts and cultural management education with us in Antwerp.

A WARM WELCOME

from the Flemish Minister for Culture

Dear Conference Participants,

Welcome to the ENCATC conference that will take place at the University of Antwerp! As the Flemish Minister for Culture, I gladly support research in the management of Arts and Culture and education in cultural management. Although interest in the management of Arts and Culture has been growing since the last decade of the 20th century, there is still a lot of work to do. For example, despite numerous efforts, cultural participation hasn't grown in the last ten years in Flanders. It remains an important challenge for cultural organisations to find and to broaden their public. How can marketing & promotion ameliorate this? How can we reach the many different (sub)cultures in our society?

Aside from the audience, the organisations must also pay attention to the artist. His position has become more shaky in a world with great expectations and growing competition. Especially in financially difficult times, cultural organisations must not only manage their activities efficiently but they also need to be creative in finding different resources. Therefore they need certain competences & entrepreneurial skills (in human resources, marketing, accountancy,...) which haven't always been the first priority. But these competences are usually latent in the organisations and can easily be triggered and valorised.

In a globalised world, these challenges also create new opportunities. As policy makers, we invest in the cultural and creative industries, based on the insight that the cultural and creative industries – aside from the important inherent value they have – are dynamic sources of innovation, growth and structural change in the so-called new economy. The United Nations' Creative Economy Report 2010 shows that the export of creative products and services has more than doubled between 2002 and 2008. In Flanders the creative industries embody this important evolution. Researchers from the Antwerp Management School calculated that the creative industries in Flanders represent - with 24 billion euro - 3% of the Flemish GDP (Gross Domestic Product), which is in line with the evolution at European level.

Another important evolution that affects the organisation and management of the cultural and creative sector is worldwide digitization. New business models are emerging and the relations between the creator, the producer, the distributor and the consumer are rapidly changing. Last but not least management of cultural and creative organisations should take the train of sustainability, a cause widely supported throughout the cultural sector.

The international network of ENCATC is in a key position to develop answers to the above-mentioned challenges for the education in cultural management in Europe. Over three days, academics and PhD students will present their research about cultural management. They will also, together with professionals and policy makers, rethink the competences that are needed for the education in cultural management at the University of Antwerp.

The output from the 21st ENCATC conference will, I am sure, make a valuable contribution to our understanding of the meaning, function and impact of the management of the Arts and Culture. I wish you a most interesting conference.

A WARM WELCOME from the Deputy Mayor for Culture and Economy of the city of Antwerp

Dear Conference Participants,

Welcome to the city of Antwerp for the ENCATC conference!

We are very glad and proud to host the 21st edition of this important international network on education in the management of the Arts and Culture.

Antwerp is a city with a world port and has a long cultural tradition. Culture and Economy have always gone hand in hand in our city. The most inspiring example is undoubtedly Rubens. He was not just an entrepreneur but a diplomat as well. He travelled all over Europe. He was not only the Spanish king's favourite painter but also the favourite of Catherine de' Medici in Paris. You don't have to be an entrepreneur to understand that this position offers interesting prospects. That arts and trade sought each other out is shown by the fact that as early as 1531 the first Stock Exchange ever was built in Antwerp. It was an absolute trendsetter when it came to its organization and operation and was used as a model for the London Exchange in 1571, the Frankfurt Exchange in 1588 and the Amsterdam Exchange in 1608. Antwerp became a place where the art trade flourished. At that time Antwerp had even more painters than bakers within its walls. The demand for paintings was greater than that for bread.

As the Deputy Mayor for Culture and Economy of the city of Antwerp, I want to build on this tradition of cultural entrepreneurship and I want to promote it among creatives and cultural organizations. Certainly in a context of diminishing public spending, globalization, digitization and important changes in cultural needs and consumption by our citizens, novice cultural managers are faced with distinct challenges and opportunities. With the project 'Antwerp powered by creatives', we want to stimulate the networking between creative people and entrepreneurs to create new opportunities for both. With the Master in Cultural Management at the University of Antwerp and the new master class Creative Jumpers at the Antwerp Management School we have also a unique selling position in higher education in Flanders. These programs want to develop the entrepreneurial and management skills of creative people or of people who are not artists perhaps but want to work in this fascinating world. Also ENCATC has an important role to play in bridging the gap between culture, economy and policy in an European context. In the future the exchange of knowledge and experiences about cultural management within Europe will be crucial. It will put arts and culture in Europe on a higher level. This conference is not only an opportunity to deepen academic research and to rethink education programs in this field but can also be very inspiring for the practitioners of cultural management. This interaction and cross fertilization is, I think, very important. I wish you a very interesting and inspiring stay in Antwerp.

and Economy of the city of

SPECIAL GUEST

Cathy Berx, Governor of the Province of Antwerp

Cathy Berx obtained her Master of Laws in 1993 and worked from then on as an assistant at the University of Antwerp. From 1997 until 2004 she was a researcher for CEDER (Study Service of Christian Democratic Party). In 1998 she became Doctor of Laws and in 2000 she started teaching at the U.A.

From 2001 until 2007 she was vice-chairman of the Social Service Department in Antwerp. And from 2003 until 2008 she was vice-chairman of the Christian Democratic Party. She joined the Flemish Parliament in 2004 until April 2008. And from 2007 until 2008 she was a member of the Antwerp City Council.

During the difficult discussions in order to get a new government at the end of 2007, Cathy Berx was a top staff member of Yves Leterme, who later became Prime Minister of Belgium. Since May 2008 she is the governor of the province of Antwerp and chairman of the Institute of Tropical Medicine Antwerp (ITG).

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Keynote Speaker on Rethinking Education: Jan Truszczyński - Director General for Education, Training, Culture and Youth, European Commission - Tuesday, 5 Nov. (15:00 – 15:30)

Jan Truszczyński has been Director-General of the European Commission's Directorate-General for Education and Culture since May 2010, when he came from the position as Deputy Director-General in the same Directorate-General. He joined the European Commission in January 2007, when he was appointed Deputy Director-General for Enlargement, with responsibility for enlargement strategy and communication. From 2001 to 2005 Mr. Truszczyński worked in the Polish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, first Undersecretary of State, then Secretary of State. In this capacity, he was Poland's chief negotiator during its EU accession negotiations. Prior to that, Mr. Truszczyński was Ambassador of Poland to the EU in Brussels from 1996 to 2001.

Keynote Speaker on Rethinking Leadership: Hilary Carty - Independent coach and consultant in association with ICCE, Goldsmiths, University of London, UK - Wednesday, 6 Nov. (9:00 – 10:30)

Hilary Carty is an independent coach and consultant specialising in leadership development, management and organisational change. Current contracts include the curriculum development of an MA in Cultural leadership for the National Institute of Dramatic Arts, Australia; Industry Lead for Access and Diversity at the King's Cultural Institute, King's College, London; and the development and delivery of the Learning Networks Action Learning programme for the British Film Institute. Prior to working independently, Hilary was the Director of the Cultural Leadership Programme, a £22m government investment in excellence in leadership across the UK cultural and creative industries which is acknowledged to have raised the sectors' leadership capacity, facilitated diverse leadership practice and personnel, and delivered increased economic benefits for cultural sector leaders and organisations. Hilary's career demonstrates a successful record of senior level management experience in the arts, cultural and creative industries including Director, London (Arts) at Arts Council England, with responsibility for overseeing the development of arts programmes and funded organisations, as well as leading the Regional Arts Plan for London and steering the Council's work on the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games. This followed her role as Director, Culture and Education at London 2012, where she delivered the inception and planning of the cultural and education programmes as part of London's successful Olympic bid. Hilary holds an MBA (1994) from the University of Westminster; is a qualified coach (2009) with the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development; and a qualified Organisation Development Consultant with the NTL Institute of Applied Sciences, UK (2011). She is also a Visiting Professor at Kufstein University, Austria, lecturing in Leadership and the Creative Industries. In recognition of her contribution to the arts, culture and the development of work-based learning, Hilary has been awarded Honorary Doctorates from De Montfort (2001) and Middlesex Universities (2009) and Honorary Fellowship of Goldsmith's University of London (2012).

Keynote Speaker: Serge Dorny, General Director, Lyon Opera, France - Wednesday, 6 Nov. (9:00 – 10:30)

Born in Belgium in 1962, Serge Dorny studied history of art, archaeology, musicology, press and communication at the University of Ghent, while simultaneously studying at the Music Conservatory. He worked for several years as music dramaturge under Gerard Mortier at the Théâtre de la Monnaie in Brussels, and subsequently moved to the Flanders Festival. In 1989 he became Artistic Director of the Festival. Under his direction it gained its renowned reputation as one of Europe's most outstanding Festivals. In 1996, he took up the position of Chief Executive and Artistic Director of the London Philharmonic Orchestra. Under his guidance the Orchestra developed into a flexible, versatile and dynamic force while still maintaining the high artistic standards for which it has always been renowned. The financial burdens which beset the Orchestra on his arrival were lifted and by the end of 2003 the LPO had the best attendance record of any UK based orchestra. Since 2003, he is General Director and Artistic Director of the Lyon National Opera House. In 2008 he received an honorary doctorate from the Université du Québec à Montréal (UQAM), Canada and in April 2012 he was awarded with the prestigious 'Knight of the Legion of Honour' (France). In 2013 he was awarded with the 'Order of the Crown' (Belgium). In addition to these activities he participates as a jury member in several international music competitions, Bamberg & Helsinki (Conductors), Monte-Carlo (Piano), Queen Elizabeth Competition in Brussels (Singing). He is also a board member of the Orchestre Français des Jeunes, Conservatoire national supérieur de musique et danse de Lyon, the Queen Elizabeth Competition and CERN Cultural Commission for the Arts (CERN is the European organisation for nuclear research). Since 2008 he lectures at the post-graduate Master's program EMAA (Executive Master in Arts Administration) at the University of Zurich, preparing leaders for the arts industry. Amongst his publications is L'opéra, l'avenir d'un passé (with Johan Thielemans, Brussels, 1990).

SEMINARS & STUDY VISITS

Ivan Walsh CC BY 2.0

ENCATC's Annual Conference programme (pages 8-11) will be offering seven parallel cultural seminars. These seminars are co-produced by the ENCATC Thematic Area chairs.

Well known international professionals and experts from top cultural institutions from across Europe, Brazil, Canada, Taiwan, and the United States will be on hand to share their knowledge and expertise with seminar participants.

These seminars provide participants with the possibility to contribute to the work done by the Education & Learning Working Group* of the Access to Culture Cultural Sector Platform in 2013. For this purpose the participants of the parallel seminars will also analyse and debate how it will be possible to empower individuals with the appropriate educational tools, skills and competencies, for their active cultural, political and economic participation in society in Europe and beyond.

Each seminar also includes a corresponding study visit to one of Antwerp's cultural flagship institutions. These visits are a prime opportunity to gather fresh perspective and ideas from local cultural operators, expand horizons, deepen knowledge and build professional networks. Directors of the visited cultural organisations will also present to the participants their educational programmes that promote access to culture.

The ENCATC Thematic Areas were set up in 2007. They are a space for specialized knowledge in specific fields of Culture and External Relations – Diplomacy, Heritage, Museums, Performing arts, Arts and Wellbeing, Creative Industries, Cultural Data and Urban Management. They are intended to Share experiences - Enhance collaboration - Keep in touch with peers - Aid research - Make new contacts - Keep up to date with advancements in the field - Announce events. Each ENCATC Thematic Area is chaired by an ENCATC member. Thematic Area members total over 700 academics, researchers, cultural operators, policy makers, artists and students who receive weekly updates from ENCATC and communicate through Google Groups and dedicated blogs.

SEMINAR 1 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30)

Rethinking education in Cultural External Relations - Cultural Diplomacy programmes: competencies and skills required for future managers

Venue: Vrijdagmarkt 22-23, 2000 Antwerp

There is a growing interest in teaching and creating new curricula in Cultural Relations and Diplomacy. Traditionally there have been many programmes both undergraduate and postgraduate in International Relations but the focus has not been on culture. There are a very few new programmes relating culture to International Relations and Diplomacy however it is expected over the next few years for this to increase as cities, regions and countries need people educated to represent them and engage with others worldwide. Some international cultural organisations now distance themselves from engaging in Diplomacy as that is

ACCESS TO CULTURE

A fundamental right of all citizens

*The Access to Culture Learning Education & Learning Working Group Lifelong learning can broaden perspectives in situations where learning seems no longer a possibility but where cultural activities can still open access to participation. We need more people, organisations and institutions to be aware of the potential for lifelong learning opportunities through cultural engagement. By developing and using this potential, culture contributes to the shaping of sustainable citizenship. www.access-to-culture.eu seen as representing a state or particular culture and uses a specific language but rather engage in Cultural Relations, seen as a more open and mutual activity. Also the state mechanisms of communication through embassies are maybe becoming less effective with the rise of social media and person to person communication. This debate between the impact of Cultural Relations and Diplomacy has been a current one for a few years now and is still in many cases pertinent. Considerable literature is available on the subject and creating bibliographies for study is relatively easy. However when creating a curriculum some things seem essential core learning, other areas less so.

SEMINAR 1 STUDY VISIT: Museum Plantin-Moretus Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: Vrijdagmarkt 22-23, 2000 Antwerp

It is just as if after 440 years the working day is about to begin for the type founders, compositors, printers and proofreaders in the world-famous printing works. The oldest printing presses in the world are in the Museum Plantijn Moretus, intact and ready to roll. The offices and shop echo with conversations between Christoffel Plantijn and aristocratic and scholarly clients from all over the world. Feast your eyes on the home of the Plantin and Moretus families! Stroll through the drawing rooms, soaking up the atmosphere of life in Antwerp in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and admiring the impressive art collection which includes portraits by Peter Paul Rubens. Continue on your way through the rarefied libraries lined with the breathtaking 30,000 old editions that make up the Moretusses' collection. Marvel at the magnificent manuscripts and some of the finest examples of European typography.

SEMINAR 2 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30) *Rethinking cultural evaluation: going beyond the GDP

Venue: Hanzestedenplaats 1, 2000 Antwerp

This seminar wishes to continue the discussion from the Stiglitz-Sen-Fitoussi Report on rethinking GDP and the Rio+20 request to the United Nations system to address the measurement of progress beyond GDP. Can well-being be defined and achieved regardless of individual and collective aspirations, identities, rootedness, creativity and the freedom of expression? What about the free-flow and exchange of ideas, diversity, access to culture and knowledge, and participation? How can the cultural dimensions of well-being be integrated into measuring progress beyond GDP? The UN General Assembly in its Resolution 65/309 entitled "Happiness: Towards a Holistic Approach to Development" was conscious that the pursuit of happiness was a fundamental human goal and recognized that the indicator of gross domestic product (GDP) was not designed to and did not adequately reflect people's happiness and well-being. This debate not only applies to which indicators are the most appropriate, but also to the methodology used to design those indicators themselves. This seminar will provide an overview of the state-of-the-art when thinking about culture as an indicator of well-being and development followed by a dynamic debate on rethinking the measurement of the spill-over effects of cultural and creative industries and evaluation of cultural approaches.

SEMINAR 2 STUDY VISIT: Museum Aan de Stroom Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: Museum Aan de Stroom , Hanzestedenplaats 1, 2000 Antwerp

The MAS Museum Aan de Stroom is a ground-breaking museum that tells the story of the people, the past, present and future of the city of Antwerp and the world. The MAS is a cultural heritage forum that works with various collections and methodologies. It is developing a diverse intramural and extramural programme, the common theme of which involves stories of the river, the city, the port and the world. The MAS is of course first and foremost a museum, but it is also an extraordinary building in its own right, occupying an extraordinary site in an extraordinary location. To walk across the square in front of the MAS is to literally walk on world art! On the Hanzestedenplaats you'll find a work of art by Antwerp's most famous living artist: a 1,600-m<sup>2</sup> mosaic entitled 'Dead Skull' by Luc Tuymans, his first public work to be permanently on display.

SEMINAR 3 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30)

Rethinking education in Museums and Heritage programmes: competencies and skills required for future managers

Venue: University of Antwerp, Prinstraat 13, 2000 Antwerp, Room A108

The mutation in the field of museums and heritage in a moving context itself requires us to rethink education of professionals by training young people in cultural management (studies) and life long learning. Indeed, besides the scientific staff (curators, researchers) varied activities and services are emerging and developing that also provide work for contractors: the interface with the public through a technology always innovating, fundraising and partnerships, marketing, design and management of meaningful projects. Which skills and expertise should education provide to face this challenge? On what basis should we build consistent profiles that can adapt to the needs of the sector and help to draw careers without ever forgetting the mission of service to the public of museums and heritage? How could cultural managers, professionals and stakeholders in the field become more involved in defining what skills are needed?

SEMINAR 3 STUDY VISIT: Rockox House Museum Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: Rockox House Museum, Keizerstraat 10, 2000 Antwerp

The Rockox House is a museum of art history, a contribution from KBC to preserving the Flemish cultural heritage and a witness to one of the most important periods in the history of Antwerp, from the Fall of Antwerp in 1585, with the subsequent closure of the Scheldt, to the Peace of Munster in 1648, which marked the final separation of Northern and Southern Netherlands. It was the home of Nicolaas Rockox (1560-1640), a key figure in the politics, society and culture of the first half of the 17th century. The furnishing of the house demonstrates the interest Rockox had in archaeology, and Roman history in particular, as well as in humanism and his patronage. Several artists enjoyed his patronage and today still serve as references to the prosperous baroque period the city enjoyed. The museum opens up its collection and its garden for the enjoyment of a broad and diverse, local, regional and indeed international public.

SEMINAR 4 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30)

Rethinking education in Culture & Creative Industries programmes: competencies and skills required for future managers

Venue: University of Antwerp, Room E122, Kleine Kauwenberg, 2000 Antwerp

What constitutes the 'mismatch' between the needs of the CCIs and the skills of creators, artists and cultural managers entering the CCIs? Where exactly are problems located? Is there also a justified distance between the more general objectives of higher education and the specific needs of the sector? What does lifelong learning have to offer to cultural managers, artists and creators? Who is responsible for improving the skills base of artists and creators? In general, three types of skills are being identified as lacking: entrepreneurial and business skills; digital and specific new media skills and communication and negotiation skills. There is a great divergence of opinions: graduates complain about lacking essential technical skills for jobs; education argues that technology changes faster than curricula etc. This seminar will explore these questions and will hear from experts and stakeholders in CCI with the ultimate goal to advance the debate on these issues.

SEMINAR 4 STUDY VISIT: MOMU Fashion Museum Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: Nationalestraat 28, 2000 Antwerp

The Fashion Museum is sheltered in the ModeNatie in the Nationalestraat. From the beginning the MoMu has opted for a dynamic approach that exceeds the static character of the average museum. The starting point for each new exhibition is an overall concept, focussing not merely on clothing but on an entire context: the designer's various sources of inspiration, links with other art disciplines, and so on. No static glass cases, but a dynamic room that is tailored to the needs of each exhibition. This vitality is the very strength of the Antwerp Fashion Museum. The building in which ModeNatie is housed, goes back to the 19th century and was originally designed as a storehouse for the men's and children's clothing company New England. In 2000 it was decided that the premises be thoroughly renovated under the leadership of the Ghent architect Marie-José Van Hee.

SEMINAR 5 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30)

Rethinking education in Performing Arts programmes: competencies and skills required for future managers

Venue: Het Toneelhuis, Komedieplaats 18, 2000 Antwerp

The main topic to be discussed during this year's Performing Arts Thematic Area Seminar will focus on leadership in the education process. Primarily the leadership of teachers in the classroom, but also on educating the future leaders in the performing arts area. We want to raise a fruitful discussion on how leadership needs to change and how this could be done at the level of higher educational institutions to educate leaders able to work in the cultural market once they get their diploma, since it is known that the leadership positions in performing arts are the most requested. But also – educating the future leaders what it means to be a leader oneself, so this seminar also aims to focus on the process of building up leadership competencies of (future) teachers in the performing arts field.

SEMINAR 5 STUDY VISIT: Het Toneelhuis Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: Het Toneelhuis, Komedieplaats 18, 2000 Antwerp

Toneelhuis sees itself as an artistic micro-society which makes up-to-the-minute theatre about the here and now. It sees the world as its oyster, Antwerp as its home base and the Bourla theatre as the hub and heart of its operations. Toneelhuis aspires to be the hallmark of artistic excellence both nationally and internationally. Though at the centre of the performing arts scene institutionally, it is at the spearhead of innovation and experimentation.

The artistic differences between the makers and their various artistic disciplines are still the creative engine of the house. Using a very personal and contemporary theatre language the Toneelhuis-makers go in search of inspirational, critical and alternative ways of dealing with today's complex reality and come up with a whole host of answers.

SEMINAR 6 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30)

Rethinking education in Cultural and Sustainable Development programmes: competencies and skills required for future managers

Venue: De Kathedraal, Groenplaats 21, 2000 Antwerp

There is a growing public awareness on the importance of cities as nodes in European and global flows of capital, migration, ideology and culture. Cities are increasingly seen as sites in which new forms of identity can be created and co-exist – for example through the promotion of innovative design and new architectural developments, culture-led urban regeneration and creative management of public space. Currently we also observe a process of rescaling of governance and growth of the potential role for cities as a driving force for social change in a new 'European society'. Therefore, the dynamics of European cities in a range of contrasting contexts, related to various forms of inclusion-exclusion, requires closer attention in order to understand contemporary processes of socio-cultural change and the potential for managing such change in the urban environment. Current European enlargement and integration processes suggest the need to re-think implications of the new multicultural context, particularly to minimize the negative effects of this new cultural situation of constantly growing and less manageable diversity. Arts and creative activities are of profound significance in this process of promotion of inclusive European citizenship as instruments for social cohesion and reintegration. This is due to their value added to stimulate positive cultural identities and to afford opportunity for self-expression and self-determination of different sections of the population, including various disadvantaged groups. Having this in mind, how do we need to rethink the educational offer in the field of cultural policy in order to prepare the future generation of cultural operators and local administrator to answer to the future challenges cities and regions have to face?

SEMINAR 6 STUDY VISIT: De Kathedraal Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: De Kathedraal, Groenplaats 21, 2000 Antwerp

Not only is Antwerp's cathedral the largest Gothic church in the Low Countries, it also tells a story of glory and prosperity – and even more so one of sorrow and disaster. This is the story of people who built dreams, people who expressed their allegiance to God and their fellow men. For over a thousand years, Mary has been the patroness of this Cathedral and of the city of Antwerp; each year thousands of people come and express their love and sorrow to Mary. This church is much more than just a museum filled with valuable treasures, it is still an active place of worship.

SEMINAR 7 // Wednesday, 6 Nov. (15:00 – 16:30)

Rethinking education in Arts and Health - How to transform culture into wellbeing and employment: competencies and skills required for future managers

Venue: Ballet van Vlaanderen, Westkaai 16, 2000 Antwerp

In Arts and Health there is a challenge that is very wide as specific education is needed both in BA and MA levels as well as in continuing studies and in adult education. As the working environment and culture is very diverse one hand in arts, on the other hand in health, there is a need to concentrate on developing transversal skills. In many European countries there are several studies in the skills and competencies needed in Arts and Health is mapped. From arts/cultural manager's point of view, the challenges in financial management and entrepreneurship are a part of the arts and health project development. The topical questions are: Which skills and competencies an arts/cultural manager will need to work within Arts and Health? What is his/her role in the field? What are the needs for research in the field from arts/cultural managers' point of view? As seen in the piloted arts and health projects a central need is to find ways to enhance creative ideas into sustainable practices and entrepreneurship. When turning the pilot into innovation with a more sustainable status along with new employment we need to focus on financing models, client basis and value chain of production as well as the service development.

SEMINAR 7 STUDY VISIT: Red Star Line Museum Wednesday, 6 Nov. (16:30 – 17:30)

Venue: Red Star Line Museum, Montevideostraat 2, 2000 Antwerp

Did you know Albert Einstein was among the 2.5 million passengers, mostly migrants, who took the Red Star Line's ocean liners from Belgium to America between 1873 and 1934? The Red Star Line Museum invites visitors on an eventful journey in the footsteps of emigrants. Become acquainted with the passengers and accompany them on their trip from their native village to Antwerp. The ocean steamers of the Red Star Line are docked on the quay ready to depart for the New World and learn exciting and personal stories.

The museum opened his doors on 28 September 2013, after a restoration period of three years. The local and historic story of the buildings and the Red Star Line shipping company are linked with the universal theme of human mobility in the draft proposal Red Star Line, People on the Move.

ABOUT ENCATC

WHO WE ARE

With over 100 members in 40 countries and 3,000,000 multipliers, ENCATC is the leading European network on Arts-Cultural Education and Research. Founded in 1992, ENCATC represents all disciplines in the arts and culture, is an NGO holding the status of official partner of UNESCO and of observer to the Steering Committee for Culture of the Council of Europe. Through eight thematic forums, a wide range of projects, activities and events, ENCATC offers academics, researchers, cultural operators, students, artists, and policy makers a platform to transfer knowledge and share ideas, projects, methodologies, experiences and research. In line with its mission and aims, ENCATC activities are structured around five complementary strands of work: advocacy, networking, capacity building, research, and communication.

OUR MISSION

To stimulate the development of cultural management and cultural policy education in Europe and beyond, engaging and responding to new developments in politics, economics, societies and technology.”

OUR FOCUS

Through eight Thematic Areas, a wide range of activities, events and projects, ENCATC contributes to the professionalisation and sustainability of the cultural sector. Together with the Thematic Areas, ENCATC also stimulates innovative thinking by researching trends and developments that affect the future of arts and culture, by supporting businesses and organisations with strategy development by means of scenario planning, and by developing new curricula, services and business concepts based on these scenarios. The eight ENCATC Thematic Areas focus on: Creative & Cultural Industries, CCI ▪ Heritage ▪ Cultural Indicators ▪ Museums and Audience Policies ▪ Culture External Relations & Cultural Diplomacy ▪ Urban Management and Cultural Policy ▪ Arts & Health ▪ Performing Arts Management.

OUR ACTIVITIES

To achieve our goals, we work along the following five complementary strands of activities:

1. Developing and influencing policy

ENCATC engages in advocacy actions through partnerships, advices, policy recommendations, consultations, meetings with institutions and public speeches. For the past 20 years, ENCATC has been a key partner for constructive dialogue with UNESCO, the Council of Europe, the European Commission, the European Parliament and Member States. Since 2008, ENCATC has been an active member both of the European Platform for “Cultural and Creative Industries” and “Access to Culture”. Additionally, in 2011, to press

Europe to invest more in cultural heritage, ENCATC joined the Alliance 3.3. improvements.

2. Networking

ENCATC provides educators, researchers, students, artists, cultural operators and policy makers with a number of opportunities to meet, initiate long lasting partnerships and projects and exchange experiences, methodologies, curricula, pedagogy and practices. ENCATC creates bridges for cooperation between stakeholders from the educational, economic and cultural sectors to prove its strong belief that meaningful partnerships are the foundation for success and enable institutions and people to make continuous improvements.

3. Capacity building

ENCATC offers its members opportunities to enhance and strengthen their knowledge, skills, competencies and abilities through a wide range of activities and projects. On an institutional level, ENCATC uses its knowledge and experience as a European network to facilitate other cultural organisations in becoming more established and prominent European players. ENCATC also coordinates a high level pool of experts for a peer to peer learning exchange inside and outside the network. To foster the reform and modernisation of the education systems ENCATC publishes the PRAXIS newsletter for students, manages a number of mobility programs, and runs a mobility Fund.

4. Strengthening the European research area

ENCATC promotes access, publishes and widely disseminates research in cultural management and cultural policy. ENCATC also ensures that research feeds into policy making and decision makers have a better understanding of cultural policy and educational issues and ways to address them. As part of its commitment to strengthening the European Research Area ENCATC manages the Cultural Policy Research Award and an annual Forum for young researchers. It also publishes a Journal on cultural management and cultural policy, the encatc/SCHOLARS bulletin and organises an annual Research Session for established and emerging cultural management and cultural policy researchers.

5. Building knowledge societies

ENCATC transforms information into knowledge. It creates, collects and disseminates information inside and outside the network through a number of tools including a monthly newsletter, a constantly updated website, blogs, social networks, a Journal, publications (ENCATC Book Series) and a bulletin. Since its creation, ENCATC has significantly improved access to arts and cultural management and cultural policy worldwide as well as bibliographies on arts and cultural management and cultural policy.

ABOUT THE UNIVERSITY OF ANTWERP

The University of Antwerp is characterized by its high standards in education, internationally competitive research and entrepreneurial approach. It was founded in 2003 after the merger of three university institutions previously known as RUCA, UFSIA and UIA. Their roots go back to 1852. The University of Antwerp has about 18,500 students, which makes it the third largest university in Flanders. 13% of the students at the University of Antwerp are international students. 10% of the students of Antwerp study an arts related education programme. The University of Antwerp forms the backbone of the Antwerp University Association (AUHA) a strategic collaboration with 3 university colleges located in Antwerp.

The University of Antwerp has 9 faculties in Applied Economic sciences, Applied Engineering, Arts, Design Sciences, Law, Medicine and Health Sciences, Pharmaceutical, Biomedical and Veterinary Sciences, Political and Social Sciences and Sciences. The Institute of Development Policy and Management (IOB), the Antwerp Management School (AMS) and the Institute of Transport and Maritime Management Antwerp (ITMMA) have an autonomous, faculty-like status.

The Faculty of Applied Economics aspires to become the market leader in the field of Applied Economics in Flanders. This leadership is based on the high quality of our academic education and research, and on our active international focus. Sustainability, creativity and social responsibility play an important role here.

The strategic plan of the Faculty of Applied Economics comprises four key points that represent the facets of a rough diamond. One of this key points is arts and creativity. We use the idea of polishing a diamond as a metaphor for the things our faculty excels at, namely the sound and thorough training of our students and the personal coaching they receive throughout their development process.
