Familiarise yourself with our publications designed for your cultural management and policy needs
Dear members,

How will you be celebrating the 30th anniversary of the Erasmus programme? It’s likely that you or someone you know has participated in one of the European Union’s most successful initiatives. For more than 30 years, mobility has been the driver of Erasmus to help over 9 million students, youth, trainees, volunteers and education staff make gains in their education, skills, and competences.

Various evaluations and impact assessments published over the past 30 years, clearly prove the value of mobility. They show going abroad equips young people in Europe with the skills needed for the labour market both of today and tomorrow and improves their prospects for a successful career. According to statistics from the European Commission, mobile students are twice as likely to have found a job one year after graduation compared to their non-mobile counterparts.

ENCATC is a strong believer in the power of mobility, not only for enhancing skills, knowledge and competencies, but also for fostering intercultural dialogue and mutual understanding. Since 2002 through its Marie Claire Ricome Traineeship Programme in Brussels, ENCATC has had 59 trainees, of which 12 have received support from Erasmus. Having come from Spain, Italy, the Netherlands, and Poland, at date these now former students, recent graduates and young entrepreneurs are among the Erasmus success stories. They have gained employment in cultural organisations, publishing houses, European and international institutions, state and public authorities, and education institutions in Europe, as well as North and South America.

Personally following the career paths of these talented young people proves first-hand the immense added value of gaining professional experience in another cultural environment. This is an experience we want for all of the thousands of students studying cultural management and policy in ENCATC member institutions around the world. This is why since 2008 our e-magazine for students, PRAXIS, has highlighted more than 1,000 internship and job offers in 60 countries to encourage mobility and having professional opportunities abroad.

While many of us think of Erasmus for students, it is an important support for academics, researchers and educators too. We are proud to have had several ENCATC members in 2015 and 2016 choose Brussels for their professional mobility experiences. Thanks to Erasmus, their time abroad helped them gain new knowledge, update their teaching curricula, learn about new research trends, and expand their networks.

Erasmus+ as it is known today has grown to become much more than a mobility programme. Its cooperation projects are a tool offering organisations active in the fields of education, training, youth and sport the opportunity to form partnerships with each other and with other actors such as companies and public authorities. Funded by Erasmus+ and its former programmes, ENCATC has been a part of several projects over more than ten years: Seceb (2005-2006); Digital Extra (2008-2010); Artists Moving & Learning (2008-2010); CRE.A.M - Creative blended mentoring for cultural managers (2011-2013); ADESTE, Audience Developer: Skills and Training in Europe (2013-2016); the European Cultural Leadership project (2014-2016); and CONNECT, Connecting Audiences European Alliance for Education, and Training in Audience Development (2017-2019). Through these projects, ENCATC and members from Italy, Poland, Spain, Sweden, and the United Kingdom have collaborated with other cultural and education institutions to produce new knowledge and develop innovative training models for the benefit of our sector.

Join me in extending a warm congratulations to the European Union, its Erasmus programme, this 30-year celebration and the wonderful opportunities it has made possible within our own network.

Yours sincerely,

GiannaLia Cogliandro Beyens
ENCATC Secretary General
NEW MEMBERS

Join us in welcoming these new members since December as our network grows!

Damien Helly, Belgium has worked on culture in EU policies since 2006. In 2010-2012, he cooperated with EUNIC and More Europe for the enhancement of culture in EU external policies. Luciano Gloor, Georgia with almost 40 years of cultural entrepreneurship and working as a cultural marketing and strategy consultant to private entities, public institutions, and local and national authorities, he has focused in recent years on cultural policies and cultural strategy development in the light of culture and the creative industries growing relevance for sustainable development in society. His professional path lead him from Switzerland to Berlin, Southern Africa and Eastern Europe, especially the South Caucasus and Ukraine.

Symbola Foundation for Italian Quality, Italy intends to be an attentive observer of the territory and its ferments, a talent scout for the myriad success stories just waiting to be highlighted and extolled as examples to follow. It intends to be a sort of neural network for quality, an agora where you can discuss, ponder and construct new interpretative grids. It wants to bring in all the experiences, enterprises and projects that bank on research, innovation and the land, on human capital, historical-cultural legacies and the landscape. The idea is to combine new technologies with the strengths of the community, with creativity, beauty and social cohesion. Italy is going through hard times at the moment. It is caught between a recession and anxiety over backsliding. The different examples of vivacity and enterprising spirit that dot the peninsula risk being viewed as isolated successes and not as templates for similar development. To keep the leaders in quality from moving in far-flung and separate trajectories, Symbola wants to create a lobby for quality, a network of expertise, relationships and exchanges able to give the country a project for future success.

Central Institute for Conservation, Serbia was a direct answer to the needs in the cultural heritage conservation field in Serbia and partly, in the region of Western Balkans. The analysis of these needs has shown that the capacity of conservation education in Serbia is not on a satisfactory level and that there is still a lot of gaps to fill specifically in the fields that are not tackled in the existing formal education, such are conservation, collection survey techniques and so on. Apart from education, CIK is focused on research in many directions within cultural heritage field, as research is seen as the second pillar in further development of conservation practice and profession.

19-21 January in Weimar, Germany: ENCATC President, Annick Schramme was a speaker at the Fachverband Kulturmanagement conference for a roundtable discussion on “Beyond the Rhetoric of Theory and Practice”.

20 January in Brussels: ENCATC Secretary General, GiannaLia Cogliandro Beyens met with Leen Gysen, Managing Partner of the International Platform for Art Research and Conservation to learn how its work could be interesting for ENCATC and its members.

27 January in Brussels: ENCATC Secretary General, GiannaLia Cogliandro Beyens met with Isabel da Veiga Cabral of the Ministry of Culture in Portugal to discuss possible future synergies and projects in the field of cultural heritage to develop with members.

26-27 January in Brussels: Led by ENCATC President, Annick Schramme, the ENCATC board held its first meeting of 2017 to discuss the year’s working plan, 25th Annual Congress, approval of new members, the annual budget among other topics. ENCATC Board members, Marcin Poprawski (Vice-president), Manuèle Debrinay-Rizos (Vice-President), Francesca Imperiale (Secretary), Maria Bäck (Treasurer), Bernd Fesel, Ana Galo, and Marilena Vecco were joined by ENCATC Secretary General, GiannaLia Cogliandro Beyens.

30 January in Brussels, Belgium: ENCATC Secretary General, GiannaLia Cogliandro Beyens met with Massimo Macaluso, CEO of Euradia Italia and Francesca Billi, Project Manager at Euradia Italia who were interested to learn more about ENCATC, its activities and events, and its members.

Professionalising students to be ready for the competitive job market

Helping today’s students and early career professionals to gain valuable experience in the labour market, ENCATC is dedicated to offering opportunities to assist them develop new skills. In the framework ENCATC’s Marie-Claire Ricome Internship Programme, Ines de Cortes is currently doing a communication internship at the ENCATC Secretariat in Brussels.

As a translation student at the Louvain School of Translation and Interpreting (UCL), she specialises in audio-visual translation in from English and Spanish to French. During her time at ENCATC, Ines is assisting the Communication Department and will be translating communication material and documents. “Having studied languages, literature and translation at the UCL, I have learned a lot about other cultures, but have not yet had the opportunity to work with people from different cultural backgrounds. I hope this training will allow me to learn more about what is new in the cultural field and about the European cultural and educational policies. I am also an art lover, so ENCATC’s mission is very close to my heart and I feel very grateful to work for an NGO that does something I believe in,” says Ines.

Are you looking for office space in Brussels?

ENCATC and its member, The Marcel Hicter Association are renting an office in a pleasant setting, next to the l’Etoile intersection, close to the Bois de la Cambre and Avenue Louise. Well-serviced by public transportation, it’s an ideal location with direct lines to major cultural and European Institutions. The office space, located on the 5th floor of the Argentina Residence, 1 Maurice Avenue in Ixelles (1050), is suitable for two workstations. OPEN CALL:
Submit your article to the ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy

On 13 January ENCATC launched a call for articles for its online publication of the 7th Volume of the ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy, which will be issued in December 2017.

Contributions are welcome from any relevant discipline, provided that they make an original academic contribution to the study of cultural management and policy.

Launched in 2011, the ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy is an open access, annual publication including original research works from the cultural field. The objective of the journal is to stimulate the debate on the topics of cultural management and cultural policy among scholars, educators, policy makers and cultural managers. The Journal is based on a multidisciplinary perspective and aims at connecting theory and practice in the realm of the cultural sector.

The deadline to make an article submission for this call is 15 March 2017.

Received articles will go through a double-blind peer review process. After this, authors will be informed whether the article has been accepted or not. The editors reserve the right to first make a prior selection in case a large number of articles is received.

Authors are asked to carefully consult and check both the guidelines for submission and the article template to be used and follow them as closely as possible.

Articles submissions should be sent to Cristina Ortega Nuere, ENCATC Journal Editor-in-chief at publications@encatc.org

PUBLICATION:
Do you have your copy of the ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy, volume 6?

The ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy is an annual publication with articles on cultural research, launched in October 2011. The objective of the Journal is to stimulate the debate on the topics of cultural management and cultural policy among scholars, educators, policy makers and cultural managers. The Journal is based on a multidisciplinary perspective and aims at connecting theory and practice in the realm of the cultural sector.

In its latest publication of its popular e-Journal, ENCATC brings you seven articles covering hot topics such as: the development of cultural management as a profession and as an academic subject in Germany; understanding the role of cultural networks within a creative ecosystem; museum audience development; festivalisation of cultural production; creative film industries; internships in arts and cultural management; and cultural heritage lifecycle management. Contributing authors are bringing their research from Canada, Germany, Italy, the United Kingdom and the United States.

"With this 6th volume, we are very proud to see the ENCATC Journal continue to be a scientific contributor to the field of cultural management and policy. The interest we see from thousands of readers, but also the many distinguished academics and researchers who wish to have their work reviewed for publication, the ENCATC Journal is a trusted and respected source gathering the best research being conducted in the field. Furthermore, for the long-term sustainability of the sector, this publication is a crucial tool for better anticipating the future and better understanding the past by promoting access to cutting-edge research. This important achievement was made possible thanks to the authors, editors, advisory board, and guest reviewers who are renowned experts and contributed to the success of this volume," said GiannaLia Cogliandro Beyens, ENCATC’s General Secretary at the occasion of the 6th volume’s publication.

In addition to the latest theory, innovative cases, in-depth bibliography and resources, a practice-based partner working directly with people going through trauma will ground the academy in both theory and practice.

Stay tuned for exciting updates to come!
CULTURAL HAPPY HOURS:
ENCATC rings in 2017 with an exceptional visit to the Brafa Art Fair

On 22 January in Brussels, to kick off a new year, ENCATC invited 28 guests who are policy makers, educators, cultural operators and artists to discover the 62nd edition of the BRAFA Art Fair, one of the leading European art and antiques fairs.

Organised by ENCATC in partnership with the Creative Europe Desks Wallonie-Bruxelles and Vlaanderen the Cultural Happy Hour at the BRAFA had guests discovering 132 galleries and art dealers from 16 countries, including 13 new names. Archaeology, jewellery, paintings, sculptures, furniture, design, ceramics, porcelain, clocks, objets d’art, glassware, antique frames, original cartoon plates and other contemporary creations retraced more than four millennia of art history from across the continents.

The fair’s now well established tradition of welcoming a guest of honour took shape in the form of an homage to Argentine artist Julio Le Parc (b. 1928). Laureate of the Grand Prize in painting at the 33rd Venice Biennale in 1966, he was a particular pioneer in kinetic art, a movement which largely inspired the fair’s decoration, entrusted to the duo Nicolas de Liedekerke and Daniel Culot of Volume Architecture.

ENCATC BREAKFAST:
The Hofstede Method opens new ways for improving cross cultural management and communication

On 30 January, the ENCATC Breakfast Training on ‘The Hofstede Method for Cross Cultural Teamwork’ gathered 14 participants from culture, education and business for an intensive initiation to this established and recognised method which sheds light and understanding on cultural differences analysis.

Our expert, Jean Pierre Coene, helped participants to recognize the misunderstandings, wrong implicit and embarrassing situations which can lead to frustration in cross cultural teams, projects and situations that can stall progress, reaching achievements, and closing deals.

After the theory introduction, during the hands-on workshop participants shared experiences and used their new knowledge under the guidance of our expert to analyse how best to apply the method to real-life situations.

Participants walked away with open perspectives, a better understanding of how their culture is perceived by others, and how to handle or prevent miscommunications between colleagues of different cultures.

What are your expectations concerning the ENCATC network?

Several of ENCATC’s strands of work have each some relevance for my work on culture. First in research, one direction we are taking is to think of better connections between research on cultural issues and research on EU external action. There are big bridges to build in terms of methodologies, data, and interdisciplinary initiatives. Second, in the networking sphere, my search for partnerships will inevitably depend on successful contacts and outreach as well as active participation. I expect, as a member, to become more involved in networking events. Next, for education and training, I hope I can learn more in areas I’m not familiar with, but also to share my expertise on EU international relations. And finally, for ENCATC’s work in influencing policy, I have long experience in influencing EU policies and I look forward to fruitful exchanges with ENCATC on how we could join forces or find common ground on policy priorities.

What could be your contribution to the network?

My contribution can take different forms, in a mutually nurturing relationship. As a person focused on innovation and change, I would be keen to use this opportunity as an ENCATC member to think more on the ways cultural management and education must adapt to a rapidly changing environment in the fields of policy, technology, and societal shocks. As a policy influencer, I could share views and experience in the understanding of current policy trends, policy priorities, challenges and risks. As a teacher, I could bring fresh ideas in the teaching community and seek exchanges with experts from different backgrounds. As an experienced researcher, I could contribute to discussions on research strategies and priorities and share information on research opportunities that could be interesting for fellow ENCATC members. Last but not least, as a manager and former steering committee member of an EU focused... network, I could be involved in activities related to innovation, theories of change, and strategic approach to network dynamics.

Do you have any interesting projects you’re working on right now that are interesting for ENCATC members and followers?

There are several projects I’m working on that could be of interest to ENCATC. On policy monitoring, implementation and effectiveness there is the policy process of the Joint Communication on EU international cultural relations. I have been monitoring this process quite closely in coordination with other colleagues and partners. I have been involved in some training activities to EU staff which has been part of a wider endeavour related to the future implementation of this Communication. Its implementation will require a lot of expertise as well as monitoring. This field is new and it is opening. It is closely related to what ENCATC knows and shares in Europe with its other partners and members. On raising awareness about international cultural relations in Europe and around the world, this project is related to outreach, dissemination and teaching of knowledge produced on EU international cultural relations. Many publication and reports that I produced in 2014 on Europe’s cultural relations are still to be better shared, explained and discussed with a variety of audiences. There is a lot that can be done if resources are pooled in the same direction with partners such as ENCATC.

Members share expertise at the “Space of Cultural Politics” conference in St. Petersburg

From 3 to 4 December 2016 in St. Petersburg, Russia, CT INTERSTUDIO-SPB held a conference on “Space of Cultural Politics” organised with support of the St. Petersburg Committee for Culture in collaboration with the St. Petersburg Branch of the Theatre Union of Russia.

The event was held once again in the framework of a continuous project called Yufit Assemblies, which was launched in 2001 in memory of Anatoly Yufit (1925-1978) – one of the founders of professional education in the field of arts management in the USSR. Meetings in the framework of Yufit Assemblies always aim both at modernity and the preservation of the most effective traditional approaches to the issues of art management and cultural policy in Russia and abroad.

The 15th conference became a part of the St. Petersburg International Cultural Forum, section ‘Theater’ (Chief of the Section - Vladimir Urin, General Director of the Bolshoi Theatre of Russia). The first day was in the format of a panel discussion on “Economics, Theatre Education, and Management in Cultural Politics Space”.

The conference enjoyed the keynotes of the international guests – members of the ENCATC, Lluis Bonet from the University of Barcelona and Dennis Rich from Colombia College Chicago, and former ENCATC board member, Michael Quine, and a number of Russian speakers along with the vivid debates driven by the themes and issues raised.

Dr. Lluis Bonet, Director of the Cultural Management Programme University of Barcelona School of Economics and Business and ENCATC member remarked: “The 15th YUFIT conference “Space of the cultural politics” organised jointly to the V St. Petersburg International Cultural Forum were a complete success. The quality of the presentations and debates around its main subject “Economics, Theatre education and management in cultural politics space” were very useful and alive. I enjoyed a lot taking part of them and they gave me a much better understanding on today’s cultural situation in Russia.”

ENCATC member, J. Dennis Rich, PhD, Emeritus Professor Business and Entrepreneurship Department Columbia College Chicago, Managing Director Creative Enterprise Consulting said: “I have attended this conference since its inception. This year, as a part of the International Cultural Forum, Yufit had more interesting presentations. The responses to these presentations and the discussion was at a very high level. I hope the conference will continue in this format. It was an exceptional experience.”

To complement and illustrate the conference theme a study visit was arranged to the creative space of Lutheran Church of Saint Peter and Saint Paul (Petrikirche).

CALL FOR ASSOCIATE PARTNERS:
National Centre of Competence for Museology and Cultural Tourism

The University of Library Studies and Information Technologies is looking for associated partners for a project under a grant scheme “Creation and development of centres of competence” funded by operational programme “Science and Education for Smart Growth” 2014-2020.

The main aim of the project is to establish the infrastructure supporting museum staff and cultural tourism. The main research areas are conservation, preservation, socialisation and digitalisation of cultural heritage as well as the management of museums and expositions. The project sustainability period should be 10 years (five years after the project period).

The project deliverables include studying the trends in developing and managing innovative interactive museums and expositions; developing virtual environments and interactive multimedia presentation of tangible and / or intangible artefacts; studying motivation of visitors; personalisation of the expositions and improvement of the cultural tourism; implementing the open innovations in museology.

The infrastructure establishment includes development of new laboratories equipped with appropriate hardware to reach the project goals. Such labs are: Laboratory for innovative visual methods in museology; Laboratory for the development and implementation of clean technologies for conservation and restoration; Laboratory for development and implementation of new methods of storing intangible cultural heritage; Laboratory for digital cultural heritage in creative and recreative industries.

For those interested in learning more and potentially becoming an associate partner should contact without delay Professor Eugenia Kovatcheva.

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION: Approaches to Participatory Governance of Cultural Institutions

DEADLINE: 1 March 2017

You are invited to take part in online mapping of participatory governance practices in culture which Kultura Nova Foundation of Zagreb, Croatia is pursuing within the project ‘Approaches to Participatory Governance of Cultural Institutions’, supported by UNESCO International Fund for Cultural Diversity (IFCD).

The project aims to develop strategic approaches to participatory governance of innovative cultural institutions by fostering their active involvement in planning, decision-making, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of policies.

Online mapping aims to encompass creative spaces in Europe and worldwide that involve the participation of diverse stakeholders (public authorities, non-profit and non-governmental organisations, private associations, artists, local community organisations, etc.), and are based on a variety of models of governance and management of cultural resources.

The expected results of the project include: participatory governance models and innovative cultural institutions in Europe will be mapped and analysed; capacities of relevant stakeholders (public authorities and institutions, creative industries, civil society organisations and local communities) on emerging participatory governance mechanisms are reinforced; a Participatory Governance Guidebook for Innovative Models of Cultural Institutions is produced and disseminated to relevant stakeholders.

EVENT & WORKSHOPS

The International Festival of Theatre Schools SETKÁNÍ/ENCOUNTER 2017

The International Festival of Theatre Schools Setkání/Encounter is organised by the students of the Janáček Academy of Music and Performing Arts in Brno. It is a part of education syllabus of the Theatre Management Department.

The 27th edition will take place from 28 March to 1 April 2017 in Brno, Czech Republic.

Every year the festival hosts students from 12 to 15 different artistic academies from around all the world, however the core of participants is formed by the schools located in Europe.

All the attendees and participants have an opportunity to see about 25 main programme performances, 10 off-programme performances, attend some of 2-3 workshops, visit up to 5 evening parties or 5 morning discussions during the festival’s week-long programming. The pedagogues and festival guests can also meet during the Meeting of Pedagogues organised in the framework of the festival.

Every year the festival draws thousands of spectators with about 3,000 main programme tickets sold annually.

The festival strives to create a platform to meet, practice, discuss, and inspire each other in the means of dramatic production. It also provides a superstructure to a common artistic education.

East-West Cultural Relations: Interplay of Arts and Cultural Diplomacy, 1945-2017

The conference to be held from 24-25 February in Jyväskylä is part of the project Trauma & Revival, which showcases and reflects on the East-West cultural connections since the Second World War, by bringing together artworks and artists from both the former Soviet Union, East and Western Europe, from the past and present. The project is coordinated by ENCATC member, the Centre for Fine Arts, Brussels (BOZAR) and co-funded by the Creative Europe programme of the European Union. The project began in June 2016 and will last until the end of 2018.

In the heart of the project is an exhibition, which brings together art from the East and the West from years 1945-68 and by that aims to look into the art history and cultural connections between the different sides of the divided Europe. The usual canon of modern art becomes problematized when artistic creation, discoveries and art history of Eastern Europe is presented alongside with the Western modern classics. The exhibition was opened in Brussels in June 2016 and will travel in the course of the project to Germany and Russia. You can read more about the Brussels exhibition here.

Besides the conference in Jyväskylä, there will be a conference in Krakow in 2017 as well as several roundtables in Brussels and Moscow dealing with similar questions. The contribution of these events is an open discussion about the cultural history and diplomacy of the East and the West as well as reflection how this shared history is seen in the present-day Europe.

New free, diagnostic tool to help cultural organisations measure their health

The National Center for Arts Research (NCAR) at Southern Methodist University has created a free, diagnostic tool, the NCAR KIPI (Key Intangible Performance Indicator) Dashboard, which provides arts and cultural organisations’ financial and operating performance results relative to similar organisations to assess health and sustainability and hone strategic decisions.

Why is it important?
• See your trends: The NCAR Dashboard illuminates your performance across nine key areas over a five-year period
• Use it as a resource to help focus strategic planning discussions
• Share stories about high performance with your board and funders
• Our metrics provide real performance results relative to the field, taking into account your organization’s community characteristics and your sector, size, age, etc
• Important intangible aspects like good-decision-making, intellectual capital, reputation, and relationships drive high performance and are reflected in the NCAR Dashboard KIPI scores
• The Dashboard helped many other industries understand high performance and the best practices that drive it
