The year 2018 resulted in another huge success for our organisation as we continued to carry out our network’s 2017-2020 agenda. With this year’s ambitious programme and target goals, we were able to make headway on this agenda’s set of strategic priorities that address our long-term challenges in relation to, on the one hand, the organisation and, on the other, our members, civil society, and the other existing networks/stakeholders.

More precisely, the ENCATC agenda for 2017 - 2020 has been designed around the following priorities:

1. Ensure a significant advancement on the representativeness and resilience of the network
2. Enhance the network’s creative and leading role as a developer of new ideas and a capacity builder at the intersection of education and culture
3. Grant culture a prominent role in the dissemination of European humanistic values
4. Continue to advance the internationalisation and globalisation of the network

With these priorities in mind, over the course of 12 months, ENCATC was directly involved in the design and implementation of 21 events organised in 10 cities in 7 countries. We were very proud to have 17 of these events co-designed with ENCATC members! In 2018, ENCATC was involved in an additional 6 events organised by its members. These events were held in 8 European cities in 6 countries. All together these 27 events resulted in combined attendance of more than 4,260 participants from 38 countries in 7 world regions.

ENCATC’s biggest event of the year, the 26th Annual Congress, was organised in Bucharest, Romania to explore the topic of “Beyond EYCH2018. What is the cultural horizon? Opening up perspectives to face ongoing transformations”. For this occasion, more than 170 ENCATC members, academics, researchers, cultural operators, artists, policymakers, and students from 29 countries in Europe and beyond attended the 4-day event to gain new knowledge, be inspired by innovative practice, and network. Under the 2018 theme, it resulted in exploring the role of education and research in shaping the process by which culture and values are built, transmitted and appropriated, and to re-frame their contributions to a common European Cultural Heritage, its sustainability and exploitation for inclusive growth.

It was also the Year of European Cultural Heritage (EYCH) and as a member of the EYCH Steering Committee, ENCATC could use the label for its heritage focused events (which counted 10) and bestow the label on its members whose events met the application criteria. This resulted in 7 members receiving the EYCH label for 12 activities in 12 countries that attracted 89,258 participants. Thanks to this rich diversity of participants coming to our events from across the globe, we raised our audience’s capacity to develop international relations. In 2018 in Asia, we were particularly successful to expand opportunities in the region for engagement and international relations with networks, major players, and influencers thanks to two events in Tokyo, Japan: our 8th International Study Tour and our 8th Academia on Cultural Relations and Cultural Diplomacy. We were able to reinforce our ties to the region thanks to these two events as well as our continued Memorandum of Understanding partnership with the Taiwan Association of Cultural Policy Studies (TACPS), our on-going relationships with the Asia Europe Foundation, the Asia-Pacific Network Cultural Education and Research (ANCER) network, and strong connections with members representing Asian higher education institutions. Of the 37 partnerships established in 2018, 26 were new collaborations between ENCATC and cultural and higher education institutions, students, scholars, artists, and media. During the year, existing partnerships established over past years with cultural networks, cultural organisations, and higher education institutions were reinforced through renewed partnership agreements. We also continued our Memorandums of Understanding signed with the Association of Arts Administration Educators (AAAE) and Taiwan Authorities to foster collaboration in the area of culture and education between ENCATC and these networks. With the aim to anticipate the future and better understand the past, ENCATC continued to promote access to cutting-edge research in the fields of cultural management and cultural policy. In 2018, ENCATC led key activities to support excellence and innovative thinking in the research field such as: the 5th ENCATC Research Award on Cultural Policy and Cultural Management, the 5th Annual ENCATC Education and Research Session; the publication of the 8th volume of the ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy; the publication of an e-book on “Beyond EYCH 2018. What is the cultural horizon?” Opening up perspectives to face ongoing transformations”. Thanks to the organisation of two international study tours, one in New York City and a second in Tokyo, 47 participants gained in the field experience to learn about cultural management in practice in the United States and Japan. These opportunities to go behind-the-scenes in two culturally vibrant cities and meet with local cultural operators and influencers. The activities also helped to create and reinforce ties between higher education institutions in Europe, Asia and North America. Going beyond these many events, the international mobility of participants, research activities, and awareness-raising, ENCATC was actively transforming information into knowledge through publications and e-bulletins related to European and worldwide issues in our field. ENCATC produced 6 issues of ENCATC News newsletter for its members, 5 issues of ENCATC Digest for stakeholders, 2 special issues dedicated to the European Year of Cultural Heritage, and 1 special issue for the 2018 Congress. The ENCATC/SCHOLAR published 2 e-bulletins to provide new material for teaching and lifelong learning on cultural management and policies. Engaging with audiences online, ENCATC animated 4 social media platforms, managed 4 contact databases and a constantly updated website that attracted 147,756 page views.

ENCATC was able to achieve a strong multiplier effect through “YCH transformation” and through channels, those of our partners, our followers, and more than 200 third party organisations who regularly communicated information about ENCATC and our events. Therefore, we reached more than 2,850,000 multipliers who benefited directly or indirectly from our information.

2018 would not have been another successful year if it weren’t for our active membership base, funders, and dedicated board and staff. Our members generously contributed with their new ideas, enthusiasm, and time to help us implement an ambitious working programme. Collectively and individually, their commitments aided to advance cultural policy and cultural management education, training, and research in Europe and beyond.

ENCATC was grateful in April 2018 to renew its partnership and again be co-financed by the European Commission’s Creative Europe programme from 2017-2020. A major contributor to ENCATC’s success, this partnership was a big part of ENCATC, accomplishing all its goals in 2018! The stability this partnership provided gave ENCATC the capacity and time to evaluate and test new tools, launch new initiatives, create opportunities for growth, and move forward in the professionalization of its members, staff, and practitioners in the sectors of culture, education, and policy. Finally, ENCATC thanks its international board and staff. At the ready, board members widely shared their knowledge and expertise, aiding in drafting documents, voicing the network at key conferences, and implementing European projects. We are deeply grateful for their tireless commitment and invaluable intellectual contributions. And last, but certainly not least, we thank the dedicated staff for their professionalism that was crucial for our daily work!

Sincerely,

Francesca Imperiale

The European Year of Cultural Heritage (EYCH) 2018 saw a series of initiatives and events across Europe that enabled people to become closer to and more involved with their cultural heritage.

The overall objective of the European Year of Cultural Heritage 2018 was to encourage the sharing and appreciation of Europe’s cultural heritage, to raise awareness of our common history and values, and to reinforce a sense of belonging in a common European space. One of the key objectives of the European Year was to raise awareness of the importance of Europe’s cultural heritage, through education and lifelong learning, in particular by focusing on children, young and elderly people, local communities and hard-to-reach groups. ENCATC, as one of the official members of the stakeholders’ committee for the European Year was entrusted with the task of labelling cross-border/European projects, initiatives and events organised by the members of our network provided that the activity related to cultural heritage, had a clear European dimension, involved several European partners and responded to the objectives of the Year.

Many different initiatives were eligible for the label: cultural events or performances, along with media and launch events, exhibitions, shows; information, education or awareness-raising campaigns; festivals, including film festivals; conferences, symposia, forums, debates; studies and surveys; training sessions, workshops; research activities, visits and exchanges; as well as digital projects, etc.

As ENCATC was one of the official members of the stakeholders’ committee for the European Year of Cultural Heritage 2018, it was entrusted with the task of labelling eligible events organised by the members of the network.

"Our heritage: where the past meets the future"
ENCATC contributed to stakeholder consultation on education and culture at European Committee of the Regions

On 18 January in Brussels, ENCATC was invited to share its expertise at a stakeholder consultation meeting convened in order to assist the European Committee of the Regions in drafting a response to the European Communication “Strengthening European Identity through Education and Culture”. At the meeting, ENCATC, represented by its Vice-President Ana Gai and Secretary General Giannalia Cogliandro Beyens, expressed its strong belief that there is a need to boost and facilitate cross border cooperation, invest more in people and education, and strengthen the sense of European identity and awareness of cultural heritage.

ENCATC signed statement calling for support of culture in EU Post-2020 Multiannual Financial Framework

On 25 January, ENCATC signed the European Alliance for Culture and the Arts’ new position paper on “Post-2020 Multiannual Financial Framework: Call for a substantial and meaningful support for culture and the arts as generators of an EU added value”. Having followed the Commission’s high-level conference on the future MFF-framework on 8-9 January 2018 as well as discussions in the European Parliament, the European Alliance for Culture and the Arts called on the European institutions and Members States to ensure substantial support for culture, the arts and heritage within the post-2020 Multiannual Financial Framework (MFF).

ENCATC welcomed new Communication on “Strengthening European Identity through Education and Culture”

On 5 February, ENCATC published its policy statement to contribute to the discussions on the European Commission’s Communication Strengthening European Identity through Education and Culture. ENCATC applauded the Communication and at the same time, proposed key recommendations for three of the Commission’s proposals.

Influencing Policy

ENCATC develops and influence policies by engaging in advocacy actions through partnerships, expertise, policy recommendations, consultations, meetings and public speeches. Since 1992, the network has been a key partner for constructive dialogue with UNESCO, the Council of Europe, the European Commission, the European Parliament and Member States. Additionally, since 2011, to press Europe to invest more in cultural heritage, ENCATC is an active member of the European Heritage Alliance 3.3.

Cultural Heritage

2018 was very busy year for the topic of cultural heritage. ENCATC and its members were frequently called on to share expertise!

On 6 June in Brussels, the European Parliament requested ENCATC’s expertise on the topic of “Integrated approach to Cultural heritage as a tool of territorial attractiveness and development in Europe”.

When the European Parliament held a high-level conference “Cultural heritage in Europe: linking past and future” on 26 June in Brussels, ENCATC participated in the discussions with political leaders, artists, representatives of museums. From 14-16 October, ENCATC was invited share its expertise at the EU Reflection Group on Cultural Heritage meeting held in Bilbao, Spain.

The European Commission called on ENCATC for expertise on “Cultural Heritage supporting intercultural dialogue and cultural diplomacy” during its “Fair of European Innovators in Cultural Heritage” held from 15-16 November in Brussels.

All throughout the year, ENCATC attend the EYCH Stakeholders Committee Meetings and was present at the official EYCH closing conference from 6-7 December 2018 in Vienna.

Finally, ENCATC also continued to be an active contributor to the European Heritage Alliance 3.3 which was in frequent contact with European institutions to voice the heritage sector.

On the evening of 13 November in Antwerp, ENCATC held its 9th Annual Policy Debate: “All aboard! Cultural governance from a global perspective”. It gathered 80 participants from Belgium, France, Hungary, Italy, the Netherlands, Slovakia, and the United Kingdom who were eager to learn about ways to improve quality and practice of cultural governance.
Networking

Networking is at the heart of ENCATC’s programming. Through a major annual congress, a wide range of projects, activities, and events, we enable academics, researchers, cultural operators, students, artists, and policy makers to operate in a transnational context, find new audiences, and share ideas, projects, methodologies, experiences and research.

Throughout the year, ENCATC continued to organise its Cultural Happy Hours with 5 done in Brussels, 1 in Prague, and 1 in Maastricht. These were popular opportunities for cultural discovery.

As part of their success, the Cultural Happy Hours went beyond ENCATC’s traditional audience to also attracts professionals banking, finance, energy, law, food and beverage, ICT, and marketing. ENCATC was able to make these events possible by establishing partnerships with renowned cultural players, among them the BRAFA Art Fair, Art Brussels, TEFAF, the House of European History, and the Prague Creative Centre.

“Our initiative is exactly what all cultural people in Brussels need. Informal meetings in informal settings such as arts centres, museums, arts galleries etc. are just great to get to know better people active in the same field and other sectors”

Frédéric Meseeuw, BOZAR, Belgium speaking about the Cultural Happy Hours
On 27 September, Dr. Alba Victoria Zamarbide Urdaniz from Waseda University in Japan was announced as the winner of the 5th ENCATC Research Award on Cultural Policy and Cultural Management for her PhD on “Re-defining the role of ‘buffers’ in the management of the historical territory. The discrepancies between theoretical concepts and practical interpretations of ‘buffer’ zones in Eastern and Western Cultural World Heritage sites.” The 2018 Award winner was revealed at the 2018 ENCATC Research Award Ceremony held in Bucharest, Romania, during the 26th ENCATC Congress. Speaking on behalf of the Award’s International Jury, Francesca Imperiale, President of ENCATC said: “This extremely well designed and written study, with its rich theoretical perspective, comparative approach, and “real world” application, reflects the true spirit of the ENCATC Research Award.”

ENCATC promotes access to cutting-edge research in the field of cultural management and cultural policy. It also ensures that research feeds into policy making, so decision makers have a better understanding of cultural policy and educational issues as well as ways to address them. It has an Award to recognise excellence and organises an annual Forum for young and early career researchers. It also publishes the ENCATC Journal on Cultural Management and Policy, organises an annual Education and Research Session for established and emerging researchers, and has its own Book Series on Cultural Management and Cultural Policy Education, which aims to foster critical debate and publish academic research.

In March, the ENCATC Journal of Cultural Management and Policy was accepted for indexing in the Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI), a new edition of Web of Science™. Content in this index is under consideration by Clarivate Analytics to be accepted in the Science Citation Index Expanded™, the Social Sciences Citation Index®, and the Arts & Humanities Citation Index®. The quality and depth of content Web of Science offers to researchers, authors, publishers, and institutions sets it apart from other research databases. The inclusion of the ENCATC Journal in the Emerging Sources Citation Index demonstrates ENCATC’s dedication to providing the most relevant and influential scientific content to our community.

On 28 September in Bucharest, Romania, the 2018 ENCATC Education and Research Session provided a unique interdisciplinary environment to get the latest world-class research conducted in the field of cultural management and policy and the most innovative practices in teaching and training. There was a focus on the main topic of the 2018 ENCATC Congress “Beyond EYCH2018. What is the cultural horizon? Opening up perspectives to face ongoing transformations”, addressing the critical and inclusive views of cultural heritage and its relation with other cultural and creative sectors. The session also included hot topic issues related to the wider field of cultural management and policy research and education.

The Education and Research Session resulted in the publication of the Congress Proceedings “Beyond EYCH2018. What is the cultural horizon? Opening up perspectives to face ongoing transformations” compilation of papers presented during the sessions.

“I would like to thank ENCATC and the Award’s international jury for this opportunity to share my research in Europe and beyond that has benefited from a social approach which I learned from a Japanese methodology. This proves that the consideration of many human layers of cultural management needs worldwide attention.”

The ENCATC Working Group on “Evaluation of International and European Transnational Cultural Projects” organised 3 more meetings in 2018 after the initiative was launched at the end of 2016. These meetings were an opportunity for academics, researchers, cultural project managers, and project evaluators to exchange practice, identify common challenges, learn about new evaluation techniques, and better understand evaluation and monitoring needs of major funders like the European Commission.

Stimulating education

As the only network positioned at the intersection of cultural management and policy education and training, in 2018 ENCATC designed tailor-made activities for professionals (members and non members) to update their knowledge, learn new skills, enhance their competencies, and open doors to new opportunities for collaboration.

An engaged actor for the achievement of the UN Sustainable Development Goals

ENCATC is dedicated to making decisions that are good for our planet and for society. In 2018 it continued its effort and acted to reach Global Goals.

ENCATC is dedicated to making decisions that are good for our planet and for society. In 2018 it continued to implement its green policy and corporate social responsibility activities to reduce the amount of printed pages, long-distance transportation, and face-to-face meetings.

To motivate and inspire the cultural sector to assume some leadership in the response to climate change and to help make the case for action on climate change and the environment, in 2018 ENCATC started a new strategic cooperation with Julie’s Bicycle, a charity bridging the gap between environmental sustainability and the creative sector. Thanks to this cooperation, ENCATC was able to offer to educational and cultural operators in Europe and beyond a series of inspiring stories that should change our practices and allow us to transform our own office in a responsible environmental organisation.

In total, 6 articles around the “Creative Climate Trends” were published in 2018: Artwork, Activism, Organisational Leadership, Design and Innovation, Collaboration and Path Finding. Thanks to efforts to increase the number of e-publications (newsletters, books, a journal, and reports) just for the membership alone ENCATC saved 18 trees, or the equivalent of 133,090* pages. This is in fact a conservative estimate because it does not take into account the number of pages saved for followers outside of the network who also read and used these e-documents. For its many events, ENCATC produced e-invitations, e-brochures and e-readers for its participants, saving 2 trees or the equivalent of 17,433 pages. ENCATC reserved printed material only for special occasions, like the programme for its Annual Congress and to use for marketing, such as its official brochure and business cards.

To support the local economy and cut down on transport emissions, when ENCATC chose to print, it hired services of local printing companies (although printing abroad would have been cheaper). For the catering of ENCATC events, local and selected service providers were favoured who proposed organic or local produce providers, especially those embracing “Kilomètre Zero”.

To further reduce its carbon footprint, ENCATC privileged slow travel and virtual Board meetings thanks to new Zoom technology. This reduced the number of face-to-face meetings and subsequently the number of kilometres travelled.

ENCATC strongly believes the creative community is uniquely placed to respond to one of the major challenges of our times: climate change and the environment. Arts and culture are the true barometers of the world around us; they influence our individual and collective experiences, and shape the decisions we make. Cultural institutions and arts organisations can therefore be a platform from which to engage and inspire action on climate change.

Fostering mobility for educational staff, students and early career professionals

The labour market in Europe’s cultural sector is highly competitive. A strong foundation of knowledge, practical skills, and professional contacts is key for boosting employability of young people in Europe’s cultural sector. Furthermore, fostering engagement of young people, preparing them for success in our field, and offering them opportunities to shine early in their careers is how we can ensure Europe will have a strong and sustainable cultural sector in the future.

In 2018, ENCATC reinforced its position to help young people by launching a pilot phase for a new website “PRAXIS” for students. The PRAXIS website aims to cover a wide geographical area and highlight opportunities for professional development across the many disciplines of the arts and cultural sector: festivals, performing arts, heritage, museums, creative industries, music, and many more.

The ENCATC Capacity Building Days and Youth in Action Day is a newly designed addition to ENCATC’s programming aimed at students studying cultural management and policy.

After the success of the first edition organised in Venice in May 2017, the second ENCATC Capacity Building Days and Youth in Action Day edition was held in Prague in 2018. This programme targeted to young emerging cultural professionals, students studying cultural management and policy, and their educators. The event attracted 36 participants who benefited from an intensive learning experience to increase knowledge about European programmes and policies impacting cultural management, innovative cultural management practices, European advocacy work in culture, and European project development and project management.

From 10-13 October in Brussels, ENCATC welcomed students from the University of Ferrara studying cultural management and policy. A member of ENCATC, the university wanted to give its students a hands on experience to enhance and deepen their knowledge on European cultural policy. The ENCATC European Study Tour in Brussels provided a four-day programme with special access to European institutions and visits to renowned arts and cultural organisations located in the heart of Europe. There were also lectures with leading academics and researchers on cultural management and policy as well as cultural practitioners.

ENCATC also recognises that on-the-job experience plays a key role in advancing the careers of tomorrow’s cultural managers and leaders. Likewise, we know that our work benefits from the creativity and curiosity of students, recent graduates, and early career professionals who join our ranks.

In the framework of the Marie-Claire Ricome ENCATC Traineeship Programme in 2018, the ENCATC Secretariat in Brussels hosted 4 trainees from United States, Italy and United Arab Emirates.

Through a combination of skill development tasks, specific projects, and group collaboration, ENCATC trainees become integral members of our team. They participate in daily activities, contribute skills and ideas, and produce excellent work, all the while preparing to become the next generation of cultural professionals.

Trainees also gained preferential access to various cultural venues and events in Brussels. They discovered cultural spaces, got a behind-the-scene look at major cultural institutions, and met with local cultural professionals to expand their network for future employment.

Establishing strong partnerships

Throughout the year, in the design and implementation of its working programme of activities, ENCATC established 37 partnerships in 9 countries: Belgium, Czech Republic, Germany, the Netherlands, Romania, Slovakia, Taiwan, the United Kingdom, and the United States.

These partnerships strengthened ENCATC’s ties to institutions and organisations in the cultural sector, but also from education, research, governments, business and the press. These partnerships were also strategic to open up vast communication channels for ENCATC to promote its activities and reach new audiences.

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

In 2018 ENCATC continued to collaborate with the Association of Arts Administration Educators (AAAE) based in the United States and the Taiwan Association of Cultural Policy Studies (TACPS). This followed the Memorandums of Understanding signed in past years with each organisation.

This year these strategic agreements resulted in an international circulation of information and partnerships on two ENCATC International Study Tours and two Academies organised in New York and Tokyo.

LONGSTANDING PARTNERSHIPS

In 2018 ENCATC continued to collaborate with the Association of Arts Administration Educators (AAAE) based in the United States and the Taiwan Association of Cultural Policy Studies (TACPS). This followed the Memorandums of Understanding signed in past years with each organisation.

This year these strategic agreements resulted in an international circulation of information and partnerships on two ENCATC International Study Tours and two Academies organised in New York and Tokyo.

PATRONAGE

One partnership in particular was instrumental: co-financing from the Creative Europe Programme of the European Union. This partnership for which the network is extremely grateful, contributed immensely to ENCATC’s successful implementation of its ambitious working programme. Furthermore, it supported ENCATC’s mission to provide members and close followers with a number of opportunities to develop better skills, competences and know-how, such as encouraging adaptation to digital technologies, testing new approaches to audience development, and testing new business and management models. It strengthened our capacity to efficiently serve our members, stakeholders and the sector at large.

Longstanding partnerships with stakeholders also continued. ENCATC enjoyed its collaborations with Forum UNESCO, the Asia Europe Foundation (ASEF), the European Cultural Foundation, and the Asia Pacific Network for Cultural Education and Research (ANCER).

ENCATC was honoured to receive for its 26th annual Congress on Cultural Management and policy, the High Patronage of the President of Romania.
Transnational cultural projects

In 2018, ENCATC was actively involved in transnational cultural projects on a variety of topics from training for cultural managers AND STUDENTS, museum audiences, digital exhibitions, artistic mobility and more!

- Heritage Pro: Interdisciplinary Training for Professionals of Different Disciplines towards Sustainable Management and Preservation of Cultural Heritage aims at developing a curriculum and training scheme for public and private heritage managers who are not necessarily restorers or conservators by education, but have to manage tasks with very different professional groups, including “traditional” heritage-preservation actors like art historians, restorers, conservators, architects and town planners as well as craftspeople, construction companies and real estate developers. The project will also strengthen new key competences in continuing VET and will focus on work-place learning by a particularly participative approach to heritage preservation.

- CONNECT is a Knowledge Alliance project for Audience Development that promotes innovative cooperation between universities and enterprises in the cultural sector across Europe. The purpose of CONNECT is to bridge the gap between teaching in the academic/higher education world and Continuous Professional Development in the cultural sector for the promotion of best practices and a systemic growth around the topic of AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT. A transnational team of higher education institutions, private cultural organisations and public sector gathers researchers, teachers and trainers from 6 national hubs in Spain, UK, Italy, Denmark, Poland and Belgium.

- HOMEE. Heritage Opportunities/threats within Mega-Events in Europe: Changing environments, new challenges and possible solutions for preservation in mega-events embedded in heritage-rich European cities brought together research centres working in the fields of cultural heritage preservation and mega-event planning with key institutions and policy officers who had direct responsibility for planning and implementing mega-events in Europe. The project will generate guidance and policy recommendations to support heritage preservation policy and mega-event planning in future host cities in Europe. Main partners include: Politecnico di Milano - Department of Architecture and Urban Studies; University of Hull - Culture, Place and Policy Institute; Neapolis University Pafos - Department of Architecture, Land and Environmental Science; the International Cultural Center. ENCATC is among the associate partners and as an expertise provider and to disseminate information about the project’s progress and outcomes.

- TRaces, "Transnational Accelerator for a Cultural and Creative EcoSystem" was created to enhance and support the precious sector of Cultural and Creative businesses, thanks to the synergy between the University of Salento (Department of Economics), as lead partner, and Tecnopolis Science and Technology Park, Creative Puglia District, Hellenic Management Association, Chamber of Commerce of Achaia, ENCATC and the Foundation for Ethical Finance.

What is ENCATC?

Established in 1992 in Warsaw, ENCATC is an independent organisation and the only European network in the field of cultural management and policy.

In 2018, it was made up of more than 100 member institutions in 38 countries. ENCATC is an NGO in official partnership with UNESCO and an observer of the Council of Europe’s Steering Committee for Culture.

Our mission is to stimulate the development of cultural management and cultural policy education in Europe and beyond, engaging and responding to new developments in politics, economics, societies, and technology.

Our members are higher education institutions, training centres, cultural organisations, consultancies, public authorities, and artists. Since its creation, ENCATC cooperates in many ways with the Council of Europe, UNESCO, European institutions, and the European Cultural Foundation. As results of our internationalisation policy, ENCATC is also a strategic partner of the Asia-Europe Foundation, and the Association of Arts Administration Educators in the United States.

We believe cultural management and policy education, training, and research have the power to make the cultural sector stronger, resilient, and sustainable in Europe and beyond.

ENCATC plays a crucial role in ensuring the sustainability and in strengthening the competitiveness of the cultural and creative sectors since its members are directly responsible for the education of tomorrow’s managers and operators and of the future European citizens who will profit from cultural offers at the European, national and local levels.

Promoting transnational cooperation and mobility inside the network: seven Member Stories

Collected in “Member Stories”, ENCATC shares examples of its members working together in this regular series highlighting cross-border and cross-cultural cooperation and sharing the impact such collaborations can have for the sector.

Together, ENCATC members pooled their resources and expertise working on conferences, educational programmes, European projects, and publications.

All these examples clearly demonstrate the ENCATC membership’s added value to realise cross cultural and transnational cooperation. While they provide important evidence of ENCATC members successfully working across borders and cultures, it is by no means an exhaustive mapping. While ENCATC is aware there are many hundreds of examples of collaboration between members, it is not always evident to collect and share this information. However, “Member Stories” provides a formalised and much needed format to monitor and promote successful examples of members working together on projects, events, research, teaching, and more.

Finland & United States

Meeting in the Big Apple: Students from Sibelius Academy meet with ENCATC Board Member Richard Maloney

In October, 14 students studying cultural management at ENCATC member institution Sibelius Academy, University of the Arts Helsinki, were in New York City to visit some of the world’s most innovative art and cultural institutions.

Type of collaboration
Education & Training

On 2 October, the group met with ENCATC Board Member, Richard Maloney, from the Steinhardt School at New York University. Professor Maloney, who is a Clinical Associate Professor and Director of the Performing Arts Administration graduate programme, gave the Sibelius Academy students a lecture on American cultural policy. This was followed by a networking reception so students enrolled in both programmes could meet their peers and exchange experiences studying cultural management in Finland and the United States. Finally, Professor Violeta Simjanovska, Head of Arts Management Department at the Sibelius Academy met with Professor Maloney and Erich Dietrich, NYU’s Dean of Global Affairs and Assistant Vice President of Global Programs, to discuss future faculty and student exchanges.

“It’s wonderful to welcome and teach students from other ENCATC member institutions. Being in New York City is a great experience for cultural management students. Its arts and culture scene has an intensity like no other city. When coupled with lectures our program at NYU can offer, the result is a truly powerful educational experience - one that students will not soon forget,” said Professor Maloney.
This research involved 32 Italian experts in various aspects of the museum sector. They included the directors of museums and archaeological sites, the project managers of smaller museums, innovative start-up companies and cooperatives providing museum services, university professors, experts on professional profiles and the representatives of the relevant institutions in the field, at a regional and a national level.

The report, conducted in Italy, arranged in four main themes.

The first theme is related to the need for a widespread digital culture. To promote the renewal of the sector, the first and foremost investment we hope for is that of the digital training of museum professionals.

The second theme regards community. In the conception and production of innovative cultural contents and services, it is necessary to develop a personalized offer as regards the various audiences to be reached, adopting suitable forms and channels of communication. The museum as an institution is increasingly called upon to redefine and re-elaborate itself as a collective body, fed by the communities that support it (local citizens and all of the cultural and scientific communities that it interacts with).

The third theme refers to professions and digital skills above all in relation to the digitalization of heritage and the involvement of the public, which are crucial factors in the present period of great changes. According to the latest findings of the Mu.SA research, at present there are two strategic figures in Italy on which it is believed that investment should be concentrated. Alongside the more widespread Online Cultural Community Manager (OCCM), who is responsible for the communication strategy of a museum and the management of relations with online audiences, there is the perception of a need to be able to count on a figure who deals with liaisons and establishing connections, the Digital Strategy Manager (DSM).

Finally, the key issue of accessibility and security emphasizes the importance of striking a balance between the need to make cultural contents as open as possible and the need to ensure the security of data and their storage over time.

Italy & Cuba

Empowering youth and young people through art and creativity

In November 2018, the Rebirth Forum “Geografías de la transformación”, a project of the Michelangelo Pistoletto, Cittadellarte and the Cuban Embassy of Rebirth/Third Paradise, took place for the fourth time in Cuba thanks to the Ambassador Laura Salas Redondo.

Type of collaboration

Education & Training

In anticipation of this event, Savina Tarsitano, Ambassador of the Rebirth project, a European representative of the International children project Kids-Guernica, co-founder of the Art centre, and an artist at Espronceda, a member of ENCATC, had the opportunity to meet in Havana with Liset Valderrama Lopez of the Oficina del Historiador de la Ciudad, also a member of ENCATC.

Their meeting was very interesting and creative in exploring a future possibility to cooperate and to organise in 2018, in occasion of the European Year of Cultural Heritage, and the future Rebirth Forum, a tour exhibition of the big canvas of Kids-Guernica inspired to the work of Picasso together with Third Paradise canvases as well. Each canvas has the same size of Picasso’ Guernica work (35x7,8m), actually more than 300 canvasses exist in the world. In 2014, the two projects, Kids-Guernica and Third Paradise, established a new cooperation across the world on the importance of education and to put children, young people and adults all together for a better world. The idea discussed was on the possibility to exhibit the big canvas of Kids-Guernica/Third Paradise in the city of Havana, indoors and outdoors to showcase the cultural heritage.

This research involved 32 Italian experts in various aspects of the museum sector. TO READ THE REPORT
ENCATC is a unique network in that its members include higher education institutions as well as organisations of cultural operators and managers working in the field. This combination is not only crucial for exchanges between education, theory, research and practice, but it can also open doors for cultural management and policy students to gain professional experience in cultural organisations. Thanks to the funding of the Erasmus+ programme, two members of ENCATC, MeltingPro and Goldsmiths, University of London are able to share such an experience. Margarita Monaco was new Erasmus+ trainee at MeltingPro since. Having completed her MA in Arts Administration and Cultural Policy at Goldsmiths in 2017, she was ready to put into practice the solid foundation she acquired on audience development. The traineeship opportunity at MeltingPro’s office in Rome was a great fit as both it and Goldsmiths are partners of the CONNECT project, a Knowledge Alliance which will develop a new Twin-track programme in audience development for students and practitioners working in arts management. “We are really excited to welcome Margarita to the team, especially as she’s a student from another ENCATC member institution,” said Antonia Silvaggi, one of the founders of MeltingPro. “She has a good preparation in Arts administration and is eager to know better the cultural setting in Rome and very proactive. With us she will be learning more about MeltingPro’s approach to audience development and its role and work in CONNECT. Moreover, this is an opportunity for us to share the important ties we are able to create thanks to being part of ENCATC and the collaborations we have with other members.”

Type of collaboration
Capacity building for students

ENCATC strongly encourages members who are higher education institutions to collaborate with members who are arts and cultural institutions to provide opportunities for students to gain professional experience in the field.

Music Festivals, a Changing World. An International Comparison
ENCATC members Lluís Bonet from the University of Barcelona and Michel Guérin from the Observatoire des Politiques culturelles/Fédération Wallonie-Bruxelles collaborated to edit with Emmanuel Négrier the book Music Festivals, a Changing World. An International Comparison. Despite the seniority of a few pioneers, the festival remains a new idea in Europe. The diversity of such a phenomenon, in terms of style, scale, public support or cultural significance, has long been an obstacle to comparative analysis. This is the first international comparative study of music festivals using a uniform style of investigation, including nine national samples of festivals, to which have been associated individual events from six other countries. The comparison focuses on 396 music festivals, representing a wide variety of genre, musical style, size and seasonal programming. All their major challenges are discussed: their artistic and cultural goals, their human and financial resources, and even their business models. The first part of the book takes stock of this reasoned journey into the world of festivals. The second part presents several national chapters that can better take into account the cultural, economic and political context in which these events are created and deployed. This dual international comparison allows us to go beyond the image of national models frozen in their opposition, an opposition long overcome by artists themselves. This book, also published in French, follows the two books previously published by Michel de Maule: Les Nouveaux territoires des festivals (2007) and Les publics des festivals (2010).

Cultural Governance in a Global Context: An International Perspective on Art Organizations

ENCATC members Ian King from the University of the Arts London and Annick Schramme from the University of Antwerp/Antwerp Management School edited a publication entitled Cultural Governance in a Global Context: An International Perspective on Art Organizations.

Type of collaboration
Publication

This original book explores the character of cultural governance of arts and cultural institutions in eight countries across five continents. Examining strategy and decision-making at an organisational level, this is the first empirical contribution on cultural policy and management, revealing how it is applied across the globe in otherwise unexplored countries.

Concerned with the assumption that ‘one-size fits all’, the chapter authors analyse how cultural governance is managed within arts organizations in a range of countries to assess whether some locations are trying to apply unsuitable models. The chapters aim to discover and assess new practices to benefit the understanding of cultural governance and the arts sector which have as yet been excluded from the literature. As a collection of local accounts, this book offers a broad and rich perspective on managing cultural governance around the world.

The publication includes article contributions from members in Taiwan, Serbia, and South Africa.

Italy

Make Culture, Make Europe
ENCATC members involved in two European projects, Adeste+ and Be SpectACTive! organized a face to face “Make Culture, Make Europe” in the name of cultural participation on 5 December in Turin, Italy.

Type of collaboration
European Projects

This event was an opportunity to find answers to questions such as: Why is Europe so interested in cultural participation? What happens to artists when they plan with their audiences? And what about organizations when they put them at the centre? What is the relation between cultural participation and democracy?

The event organized by Adeste+ and Be SpectACTive!, two European projects that operate in culture and performing arts (theater/dance) that won in July 2018 the competition announcement by the Creative Europe program of the European Commission.

In the next four years both projects will work on the processes of cultural participation. The projects are headed by two Italian organizations - ENCATC members, the Fondazione Fitzcarraldo for Adeste+ and the Associazione CapoTrave/Kilowatt for Be SpectACTive! - and are united by a goal: to experiment with forms of collaboration between cultural and public organizations, putting citizens at the centre of artistic and organizational processes.

Adeste+, with its 15 partners (that also includes ENCATC members Fondazione Fitzcarraldo, The Audience Agency, MeltingPro, and the Kultura Nova Foundation) in 11 cities of 7 European countries, acts on cultural organizations to experiment with organizational and policy processes (working on Audience Development). Be SpectACTive! active since 2014, continues its European mission. In this new edition the project involves 19 partners, including ENCATC members Fondazione Fitzcarraldo and the University of Barcelona located in 18 cities and in 15 European countries and continues to experiment with participatory practices that involve actively the spectators/citizens in the artistic and organizational processes (working on the Audience Engagement).

The ENCATC board is responsible for the network’s policy and for the design and implementation of the annual working programme in collaboration with the ENCATC Secretary General.

The members of the board are active in implementing a number of activities and projects for the network. Each member of the board takes over a specific responsibility and he/she replaces the Secretary General, when necessary abroad. Each year, the Board organises a number of meetings to discuss, among other issues, membership applications, network activities, strategic decisions, and project proposals.

The current ENCATC Board for 2017-2019 was elected at the 25th Virtual General Assembly which took place from 2-15 November 2017.
The successful year was made possible thanks to ENCATC board members, international correspondent board members and ambassador, but also thanks to 3 dedicated and experienced full-time employees, 4 trainees, and 4 external service providers.

Thanks to the dedication and professionalism of everyone involved, the network was able to achieve all of its foreseen activities and events, as well as additional events being organised throughout the year as opportunities arose to partner with members and other organisations.
